

CANDYCE HALSTEAD

Candyce is graduating in with a Bachelor of Social Work degree. She has been accepted into the graduate program at Washburn University and will begin pursuing her Master of Social Work degree with a healthcare concentration in the Summer 2020 semester. Upon completing her graduate degree, Candyce hopes to begin her career in a local hospital working on a Labor and Delivery Unit or Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU). She will pursue certifications needed to become a perinatal social worker which specializes in serving this population. Candyce received the Bowman Scholarship from the School of Applied Studies. This scholarship along with her willingness to put in many hours at work over the years has allowed her to graduate with her undergraduate degree without student loan debt.
